Historical Sketch

The letters of George R. Kelley relate to the life and times of a McLean County serviceman during World War II. Before his entry into the military service he worked in Burlington, Iowa. He married Lucille Sutter before he went into the military. When he was stationed in the US she accompanied him to many of the bases he was located at. During the beginning of his time in service he went to aviation school to become a pilot and was an officer in rank. After he was sent overseas she returned to the McLean County area around Towanda where her parents farmed. He wrote to his wife almost everyday when he wasn't out on a flying mission. The receipt of mail to him was something that he lived for every day but the mail delivery service sometimes took 3 to 4 weeks to receive a letter and then he would receive a number of letters at a time. His letters clearly indicate many of the worries a soldier had about leaving his family and trying to keep the communication going between them through letters. When family affairs needed attention on the home front, it would take several weeks before answers would arrive due to the slow mail service.

In his letters he would ask his wife to send him the many things that one would assume they had access to—for example stationery, envelopes, postage stamps, candy, chewing gum, military clothes, books, magazines, etc., that one would think of as being issued to them. During his time in the military he took up the hobby of photography to help pass the time when he wasn't on duty. Only certain kinds of candy and cookies would arrive for him in good condition. The heat and moisture was so bad during shipment that most of the time it was not in acceptable condition upon arrival. He continually asked his wife to send photographic supplies to him so he could keep up with his hobby. He was very careful when he wrote his letters not to mention any specific locations he was in or any missions he was on so that his letters would pass censorship. After the invasion of Normandy he even mentioned in one letter that he was wondering if his wife realized he was “in on the invasion” of 6/16/44. Nothing more was said about it.

When he had an opportunity to go off the base he did see a lot of the country and purchased many of the wares of the country to ship back home. While stationed in England he went to London, Scotland, France and numerous unnamed cities near his base.
