Brief History

Albert Gallatin Ewing (1804-1873) was born in Nashville, TN in 1804 to Scottish natives. He graduated Cumberland College at age 16. While a partner in a drug store, Ewing heard Alexander Campbell preach in Nashville. The nineteen year old and his parents converted. Ewing moved to Bethany, VA (now West VA) and studied under Campbell, traveled on some of Campbell's preaching tours, and married Campbell's eldest daughter Jane. After Jane died, he wed Mary Jane Marsilliot of Wheeling, VA. Ewing moved to Clarington, OH, where he ran a mill and also pastored a church for 16 years. With failing health and failing finances, he moved the family to Eureka, IL, in 1838. There he became a church elder and joined the board of Eureka College. He died at home in 1873.

Alexander Campbell (1788-1866) was a Scots-Irish immigrant who became an ordained minister in the US and helped lead a reform movement that developed non-denominational Christian churches. Churches existing today with historical ties to this movement include Churches of Christ and Christian Church (Disciples of Christ.)

Born in Christian County, KY, brothers James B. Stevenson and Adlai Ewing Stevenson I (1835-1914) moved to Bloomington, IL, with their parents and family about 1852-53. James was among the developers of the McLean County Coal Shaft, starting in 1867. Adlai studied law and commenced practice in Metamora in 1858. He engaged in politics and became US vice president from 1893 to 1897.

Scope

This collection centers around the correspondence of the family of Albert Gallatin Ewing. Along with correspondence regarding the personal affairs of the Ewing, Davidson, Marsilliot, and Stevenson families, there are letters covering a wide variety of subjects – social, business, and religious.

Included is correspondence dealing with business affairs, religion and politics in Nashville in 1835; letters touching on business and religious connections with the Church of Christ in Clarington, Ohio in the 1850's and the Eureka Christian Church in the 1880's; three letters of personal content from Alexander Campbell, founder of the Disciples of Christ; and descriptions of a European tour made by James B. Stevenson in the summer of 1875. The letters of James B. Stevenson, his wife, and his brother, Adlai, constitute nearly a fourth of the entire collection. Of particular interest are four letters describing Civil War sentiment in Nashville, Morgan Town, and Wheeling; a pilot's description of riverboat travel in the 1860's; and four letters written by Adlai E. Stevenson I.
